G.I.'s Rifle Won't Hold Notches for Dead Japs

ON LEYTE. — Pfc. Johnny Freeman of Springdale, Ark., can't carve a notch on his automatic rifle for every Japanese he has killed. There isn't room.

Lieut. Robert E. Rector of Bluffton, Ind., says Freeman has killed 23 Japanese.

"I got my biggest bag when 15 came toward our position," Freeman recalled. "I sort of warmed them up. One of the easiest was a foolish Jap. He took a bath in a stream only a hundred yards away."

Captive Japanese Scoffs At American Fighters

KANSAS CITY.—The Australians are the best jungle fighters in the world, the Japanese are second and the Americans no good at all. That is the opinion of one Japanese taken prisoner by the Americans.

Capt. William J. Koenigsdorf wrote home from the South Pacific that the English-speaking prisoner didn't approve of the bombing and shelling that preceded American advances.

"First, the American cut down the jungle," he said. "Then he fight."

Bird Enables Soldiers To Practice First Aid

CAMP VAN DORN, MISS.—Six soldiers of the 255th infantry communications section here have living proof that they mastered their GI courses in first aid while trussing wire on a field problem, the group set the broken leg of a baby mockingbird. Later, back in the area, they found the bird hopping on his padded splints.

They removed the bandages and found the leg healed perfectly.

New-Type Rockets Fired at Germans

Use High-Velocity Missile Developed by Navy.

WITH UNITED STATES NINTH AIR FORCE, FRANCE.—American fighter-bombers equipped with rockets that are in action in western Europe are using a new type of missile that offers the great advantage of a high ratio of fire control for the pilot.

Maj. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, chief of the Ninth's tactical air command, announcing the use of the high-velocity rocket by some Thunderbolt squadrons, said:

"It implements aircraft with a new weapon of tremendous possibilities. Further, it is very significant that the Thunderbolts are still able to bomb, machine-gun and fly as well with rockets as without.

"Their first use in France against enemy armor fully confirmed our high expectations and will undoubtedly lead to the increased use of this weapon."

General Quesada said that the new rocket had been developed by the United States navy, adding that "the navy did a better job on rockets than we."

"The power for the rockets is difficult to manufacture," he said, "and this held up their use until some weeks ago, when the first rocket-equipped planes were thrown in in close support of ground forces."

News of these rockets has been released now that several such planes have fallen into German hands.

Flying Auto Comes Next Roscoe Turner Asserts

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.—Roscoe Turner of Indianapolis, former speed flier, predicted "flying automobiles" in the postwar future.

When his prediction brought a laugh from the Missouri American Legionnaires he was addressing, Turner said:

"I'm not kidding. These things have already been flown.

"Some day when you go in to buy a car, the salesman will ask whether you want it with or without wings. "You'll be able to drive to the airport, attach the wings and take off. When you come back, you'll check the wings at the airport and drive back to your garage."

'Gold' Bricks Prove Principally Brass

EUFAULA, ALA. — Assayists said that 10 yellow metal bricks, discovered by a Negro plowing in a field near here and believed to be gold, were made up mostly of brass. The bricks contained "some" gold but were not worth $7,500, the estimated value given them by local bankers.

Combat Men Take Jobs in War Work

16,000 on Furlough Help on Critical Production.

WASHINGTON. — The army and navy have lent some 16,000 men capable of combat duty to fill labor gaps in critical war production, a high government official said. These men—more than a full division of troops—went from uniforms to overalls to work on such items as tires, copper and foundry products.

The army and navy have estimated that 60,000 additional men are needed for overseas duty by June 30, while 1,000,000 replacements are trained. But first of all they want back in the fighting ranks the 16,000 men who have had to muster out temporarily to fill critical jobs. Reports that these men receive both army and civilian pay has caused some dissatisfaction among buddies left in uniform.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleets, estimated that a minimum of 300,000 new munitions workers are needed. An official said that was due in part to swift changes in the production program in recent weeks.

He cited as an example President Roosevelt's statement in his opening message to congress that the army has developed a new tank with a gun more powerful than any yet mounted. As a result production of the President added that many thousands of these would be needed by 1945. That fact alone, it was said, has caused an upward revision in labor needs in the Detroit area, where it had been thought previously that manpower requirements had reached their peak and would decline gradually.

A shift in production from standardized fighting planes to the new jet propulsion types was given as another example of how the program has changed.

Civil War Veteran Finds His Kin After 44 Years

CHICAGO. — Mrs. Ethel Garrick, of 4047 S. Langley avenue, learned that her 98-year-old grandfather, John Pomeroy, who vanished into the Alaskan wilds 44 years ago, was alive and well.

In a veterans' home in Napa, Calif., the civil war veteran and Indian fighter longed to receive word of his children for Christmas. A New York company located his one surviving daughter, Mrs. Mary Clidence of 3250 E. Colonial drive, Orlando, Fla. Four other grandchildren are scattered throughout the country.

Pomeroy left the country in 1900 to search for gold in Alaska and quit communicating with his family a short time later.

55 Villagers Murdered By Nazis in North Italy

NEW YORK. — Fifty-five men, women and children out of the 200 inhabitants of the Italian village of Madonna Dell Albero, near Ravenna, were massacred by Nazi SS (Elite Guard) troops.

An overseas dispatch to the OWI said Lieut. H. N. Acker of Toronto, a signals officer of the Canadian First division, had revealed the massacre after talking to the remaining villagers. Acker, the dispatch said, had arrived at the village as the last 31 of the victims were being prepared for burial.

The Germans were angry, the villagers said, "because they suspected some of the men had gone to the Allied lines with information."

Navy Bares New Aerial War Dog

Privateer, Big Scout Plane, In Production; Can Cover 3,000 Miles of Sea.

WASHINGTON. — The navy has made public some details of a new search plane which is able to range unusually more than 1,500 miles from its base and can defend itself as well as attack an enemy, according to Secretary Forrestal.

Search planes are the scouts or eyes of the fleet from shore bases. Within the limits of the range of such planes, the enemy has little chance to move undetected and without being attacked.

The new plane's design is based somewhat on that of the Consolidated Vultee B-24 Liberator bomber, but it has been redesigned to such an extent that the navy gave it a new name—the Privateer—to describe its mission.

Has Four Engines.

The Privateer has a fuselage more than 7 feet longer than the Liberator, carries 12 50-caliber guns in 6 turrets, some of which are different from those on the bomber, and can stay aloft 20 hours and fly well over 3,000 miles." Its top speed is more than 250 miles an hour.

The plane weighs approximately 32 tons at takeoff and is powered by 4 engines. It has a crew of 11.

Its most distinguishing feature is a high single tail, which navy and company officials described as having less drag than the familiar double tail of the Liberator, providing greater stability in flight, and permitting larger cones of fire for top and side guns when firing aft.

Equipment Emphasized.

The plane was described as an almost entirely new one, with the wing being the only major item borrowed from the Liberator. The navy's designation of it is PB4Y-2. It succeeds the PB4Y-1, which was a converted Liberator.

Particular attention has been given to navigation and other equipment. Two of the crew members are assigned to the radio department.

The Privateer is in production at Consolidated's plant in San Diego, Calif.
